OrdLord: ten cycle indicators, in plain English
Not financial advice. Not a buy or sell signal.

1. MVRV. Market value versus the average price holders paid. High has been late.
2. MVRV Z-score. That same gap, scaled by how unusual it is. Tops have been above 7.
3. NUPL. How much of the market value is unrealised profit. Above 0.75 has been extreme.
4. 200-week multiple. Price versus the long weekly average. Near 1x is close to that average.
5. Rainbow. Coloured bands from Fire Sale to Maximum Bubble. Nicknames, not orders.
6. Pi Cycle. Two long averages. A cross has lined up with some highs. A wide gap is not a top by itself.
7. Puell. Miner revenue versus its own year. Very high has been stretched. Very low has been washed out
8. Fear and greed. A crowd index. Deep fear has often been calmer than a frenzy.
9. Monthly RSI. Whether the monthly trend is stretched.
10. Weekly momentum. Whether the weekly trend is improving or fading.

The OrdLord Cycle Score ranks readings like these from cold 0 to overheated 100.
The calendar is separate: days since the latest supply cut.
